PART THREE

THE AMELIA COUNTY

FAMILIES AND CHILDREN

Chapter 5

Daniel Coleman
(1696 – Approx. 1789) and His Family

Daniel Coleman Sr. (# 1.1.4.1) made his will 9 March, 1782, Amelia County, Will Book 4, pages 130 – 131. The will names the following eight children, Mary, Martha, Daniel, Frances, Ann, Hezekiah, Jesse, and Elizabeth,

The will was not proved until 26 February 1789. (See Volume 2, Appendix 6 for the wording of this will).

As mentioned in Volume 1, Chapter 3 Daniel was a community leader and from all appearances, a self-taught bridge engineer and builder. Thus, he is the first known American engineer in the Coleman family.

Examples of Daniel Coleman Sr.'s (# 1.1.4.1) engineering activities include:

18 May 1739- Amelia County, Virginia, Order Book 1, Old Style, Page 67 Richard Jones Gent being appointed by this Court to meet the person appointed by Prince George Court to consult and agree with some person for building a Bridge over Namozine Creek. Reported that they had agreed with Daniel Coleman for the Sum of Eleven pounds fifteen Shilling to build the Said Bridge and that the same be paid after laying the next levy.

This bridge over Namozine Creek is known as Coleman's Bridge and is located on Virginia Route 625, also called Red House Road. The name of "Coleman's Bridge" is found on the 1865 Civil War era maps of the area.

The following details the eight children of Daniel Coleman (# 1.1.4.1) and his wife Elizabeth:

1. Mary Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.1) was born in 1724, and married a Tally.

2. Martha Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.2) was born in 1726, died in 1791 and married Thomas Green.

3. Daniel Coleman Jr (# 1.1.4.1.3) was born in 1731, Amelia County, Virginia, and died in 1819 Amelia County, Virginia. He married Elizabeth Green who was born in 1735, Amelia County, Virginia, and died in 1783, Amelia County, Virginia. His will can be found in Volume 2, Appendix 7.

4. Frances Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.4) was born in 1733 and married a Tally.

5. Ann Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.5) was born 1739.

6. Hezekiah Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.6) was born in 1740, and died in 1800.

   Deeds and other documents related to Hezekiah Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.6) are as follows:

   20 June 1763- Deed. James (X) Tucker of Amelia Co. to Robert Tucker of same. D. Dec. 20, 1763. Consid: 7/10/0. 15 acres in Amelia Co. N/S main Sampsons Branch adj. Hezekiah Coleman also owned land in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, on Allen's Creek, not far from John Coleman. This land was adjacent to Thomas Green's land. Allen's Creek is now part of Lake Kerr next to Warren County, North Carolina. The land was purchased from Thomas Whitworth and was later sold back to Mr. Whitworth in a deed that specified Hezekiah was of Amelia County, Virginia. By 1790 Hezekiah Coleman had moved to Laurens County, South Carolina, per the Census of that year.

7. Jesse Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7) was born in 1741, and died in 1800. He married Sarah Loftis.

Deeds related to Jesse Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7) are as follows:

16 December 1769- Deed. Thomas Lipscomb of Prince Edward Co. (Va.) to Jesse Coleman D. Dec. 16, 1769. Consid: 150. 200 acres in Amelia Co. Daniel and Richard Pryor Coleman House (Landmark 20)

Overlooking the Namozine Creek bridge on Red House Road known as "Coleman's Bridge", is the house thought to have been built by Daniel Coleman during the latter part of his life.

The house was then passed on to successive family members eventually ending its useful life soon after the death of Daniel's (# 1.1.4.1) 2nd great-grandson, Richard Pryor Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.7.4) – (1860 – 1938).

The antecedents of Richard Pryor Coleman were:

Richard Pryor Coleman [432]
(# 1.1.4.1.7.5.7.4)
(1860-1938)

Family oral history tells us that this house was built by either William Coleman (1680-1745) or by his son Daniel Coleman (1697-1789). The property was land granted to William Coleman in 1724. Additional land grants attributed directly to Daniel Coleman included September 22, 1739. Land Patent Book 18, Page 391, granted 800 acres of land in Amelia County on the south side of the long branch of Winticomaick Creek. Also, August 1, 1745, Land Patent Book 22, Page 377, granted 190 acres of land on the head branches of the Great Fork of Flat Creek, along his own lines.

The house was last occupied by Richard Pryor Coleman (1860-1938) and his sister, Mary William Coleman (1864-1941) descendants of Daniel Coleman. Richard Pryor Coleman died as the results of a fall from his tobacco barn and the house was abandoned soon thereafter.

It is the author's belief that the family's oral history is accurate for the following seven reasons, (1) Daniel Coleman's legal responsibility to maintain the adjoining road and bridge; (2) the estimated 18th century house construction date by Dr. Michael Spencer; (3) Daniel's "engineering background" which would be necessary to design and build a diagonally positioned quadruple hearth chimney as compared to William's background; (4) the existence of a nearby 18th century example in Williamsburg that Daniel would have been aware of; (5) an adjacent brick lined ice house and a brick lined well utilized by Daniel's "Ordinary", (6) the use of hand wrought rose head nails in the construction of the house and (7) the eventual ownership by Daniel's direct descendant Richard Pryor Coleman. Additional information on the author's reasoning on items (2), (4), (5) and (6) follows below.

In regard to reason (2) above, Dr. Michael Spencer, Department of Historic Preservation, University of Mary Washington, writes the following, "From a cursory glance it looks as though the house were originally a hall and parlor plan with a shed addition added on the back".

He continues, "Confirmation of a shed addition is actually a big deal here as there are other examples of building with eaves wall chimneys in Virginia, but they are typically of early date. For example the original section of the Mary Washington House here in Fredericksburg we had dendro dated to 1759, this building likely was about the same size and configuration as this example. Because of the chimney placement it also meant that there were diagonal hearths to enable heating of both rooms. In Fredericksburg diagonal hearths are typically gone by the late-18th century."

This information and layout below is courtesy of Architectural Historian (and Virginia DHR Board Member) Carl Lounsbury. Carl worked for Colonial Williamsburg in their Research Department and collaborated in the definite book on early Mid Atlantic architecture, The Chesapeake House.

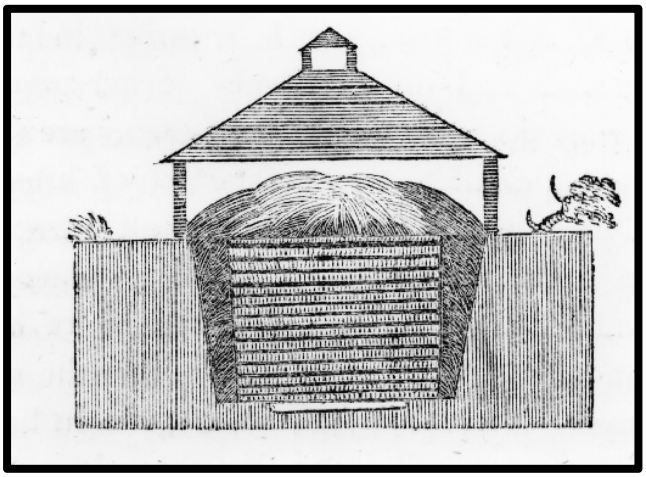
Layout and Orientation By Author
(Landmark #20)

In regard to reason (4) above, it is logical to assume that in pursuit of his profession of bridge builder and surveyor Daniel Coleman would have traveled to Williamsburg where he became familiar with Period I of the Peyton Randolph House, which was built in 1715-18 and known as the Robertson Tenement before the Randolphs purchased it and later extended it to the east in the 1750s.

In regard to reason (5) above, it was discovered by inspection that this plantation was equipped with both a brick lined ice house and a brick lined well to the east of the house. The in ground remains of such can still be seen.

While the above ground ice house structure can no longer be seen, the in ground brick is still present. The general configuration of the original structure may have been as shown in the drawing shown below. It is suspected that ice would have been supplied during the winter from a man-made holding pond supplied by nearby Namozine Creek. Such an ice house would be supportive of the operation of an ordinary which was licensed at Daniel's house in 1744. This is the earliest documented date for the house. In the colonies any tavern or inn that served a complete meal at a fixed price was referred to as an ordinary.



J. B. Bordley, "Section of an Ice-Pit,"
Richard Parkinson and J. B. Bordley,
A Tour in America, 1798–1800

In regard to reason (6) above, the use of hand wrought nails in Virginia is well documented in the 1970 thesis, The Nail Making Industry in Early Virginia, by John Tracy Keene at the College of William and Mary. Nails produced on cutting machines "almost universally superseded wrought nails as soon as they reached the market, usually about 1800". The use of locally produced wrought nails in Virginia therefore occurred prior to that date.

In addition, "at the close of the Revolution England and Scotland again became Virginia's chief suppliers". It is therefore concluded by the author that the locally produced, hand wrought iron nails used in this house were produced before the war started in 1775.

In summary this plantation contains a houses built on a brick foundation; a brick central chimney, and brick outbuildings. Such brick structures indicates a certain level of wealth and technical knowledge that would have been possessed by its suspected builder Daniel Coleman. Photos of the Daniel Coleman House with its central fireplace (Landmark #20) are shown below.

Continuing further east from the ice house and well is the plantation graveyard. This cemetery has a modern era steel linked fence with a door on the south east corner. Entry during the summer is made difficult by the presence of briars and honeysuckle.

Family tradition tells us that the following are buried in the cemetery:

- Julia Ann Rebecca Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.5.7), born in 1835, and died in 1924, wife of Richard Albert Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.2.6), born in 1824, and died on 1 April 1900. Mother of Richard Pryor Coleman.

- Mary William Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.7.6-), born on 1 Apr 1864, and died on 13 Jun 1941. Sister of Richard Pryor Coleman.

- Richard Pryor Coleman (#1.1.4.5.5.2.6.4), born on 15 June 1860 and died on 5 May 1938.

- Charles E. Saunders, born on October 1872 and died on 28 December 1927. His wife was Sarah Tabitha Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.5.7.9), born on November 1870 and died on 26 January 1958. She was buried in Dinwiddie County, Virginia.

Hannah Coleman and Jesse Clay House Landmark 22

Another house in Amelia County, Virginia, that was owned by a descendant of Daniel Coleman (# 1.1.4.1), was the 1790 home of Hannah Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.3.4) and Jesse Clay. Hannah Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.3.4) was Daniel Coleman's granddaughter. Jesse's son from his previous marriage, John S. Clay, married Dolley Mary Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.6) in 1809. Dolley Marie was Hannah's second cousin.

Hannah Coleman's antecedents were:

The Chataigne Gazetteer and Classified Business Directory 1888 – 1889 listed many additional descendants of Daniel Coleman.

That listing included Edward H. Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.5.6) as Clerk of the Court for Amelia County, Richelieu Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.5.2) as Postmaster at Mannboro (appointed on 28 February 1882),

Some of the prominent farmers listed were Walter Emerson Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.3.3.3), Wilbur Olin Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.3.3.2), Richelieu Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.5.2) and Naborne Quarles Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.5.3). Wilbur Olin Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.3.3.2) was appointed Postmaster on 21 March 1894.

Walter Emerson Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.3.3.3) was Sheriff of Amelia County from 1899 to 1907. He had been a Deputy Sheriff for several years prior to that.

Additional information on four of the notable Coleman family members listed in Chataigne Gazetteer and Classified Business Directory 1888 – 1889 are given below.

Richelieu Coleman House (Landmark 3)

A single story wooden house in Amelia County, Virginia, (Landmark #3) was owned by Richelieu Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.2) until it was sold along with the 339 acre farm in 1808 to David E. Mann, the brother of Richelieu's wife, Cornelia Elizabeth Mann. Mann sold the house and 183 acres to George Booker in 1876. The house was torn down in the 1980s.

Richelieu Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.2) was Daniel Coleman's great grandson and is said to be buried here along with the Booker Family.

The Richelieu Coleman house was visted by marauding Yankee troops during the time after the evacuation of Petersburg and the family's Bible was stolen. The last Coleman related entry was related to the birth of Marion Armistead Coleman on 25 April 1864.

This Bible was found in a barn in New York state and has been recently acquired by the Amelia County Historical Society. In addition to Coleman related signatures there are many "Yankees" also documented.

Richelieu Coleman Bible

Richelieu Coleman's brother, Edward H. Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.6), was born on 11 February 1831 at the old family house in lower Amelia County called "Chestnut Grove" and died 2 April 1907. The exact location of this house is not known.

Edward H. Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.6) was the great grandson of Daniel Coleman (# 1.1.4.1). Edward H. Coleman's antecedents were:

Daniel Coleman [33]

Edward H. Coleman [108]
(# 1.1.4.1.7.5.6)
(1831-1907)

Edward married Mary Catherine Haskins in 1828. Mary was born in 1829 in Amelia County, Virginia.

Edward was appointed Deputy Clerk of the Amelia County Court in 1847 and was elected Clerk in 1854. He continued as Clerk for sixty-two years except for a short period after the Civil War when the post was held by a federal appointee.

According to the Richmond Times Dispatch of February 8, 1942, "On the afternoon of April 5, 1865,.. (two days after the battle of Sweathouse Creek)…an officer with flowing auburn hair rode up to the courthouse and inquired for the clerk. Mr. E. H. Coleman, then clerk of the court, was pointed out to the officer. He said, Go into your office, sir. Open the doors and remain there. I will put a guard around the building and it shall not be destroyed".

"The gallant and considerate officer was George A. Custer of the Federal Army…".

Such is the reason that the historical records utilized in this book were not destroyed as many others were during this period when their courthouse was burned during the Civil War.

Another Daniel Coleman (# 1.1.4.1) descendant was 2nd great grandson, Wilbur O. Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.3.3.2).

Wilbur O. Coleman's antecedents were:

(#1.1.4.1.7.3.3.2)
(1848-1926)

The house belonging to Wilbur O. Coleman (#1.1.4.1.7.3.3.2), was originally built in 1723 and included 235 acres. It was used as a hospital on 3 April 1865 after the battle of Sweathouse Creek between the troops of George Armstrong Custer and General Fitzhugh Lee. A Confederate soldier was buried in the front yard of this house after his death from battle related injuries.

It was sold out of the Coleman family in 1919 and was torn down in the 1970s.

Wilbur Olin Coleman and James Allen Sydnor Store (Landmark 7)

A store and post office has stood at the intersection of the Richmond Road (Virginia Route 612) and the Namozine Road (Virginia Route 708) since 1831. This store and integral post office was owned and operated by Richelieu Coleman in 1856 and then by his first cousin, once removed, Wilbur Olin Coleman from 1894 to 1896.

Wilbur Coleman then sold the store and post office plus 119 acres of land in 1896 to Joseph Allen Sydnor for $ 1,295. Joseph was the son of Robert Henry Sydnor (1820-1900) of Amelia County.

The store in 1896 was in much the same configuration in April of 1865 when 30,000 Confederate soldiers pursued by 60,000 Union troops passed through this intersection. The Namozine Presbyterian Church is located just a few miles to the east down the Namozine Road (Virginia Route 708). Gen. Rufus Barringer's Confederate cavalry was posted at the church on 3 April 1865. Sometime after 9:00 a.m., Gen. George A. Custer's cavalrymen charging down the road and struck the battle started. The regiment in the Confederate center tried a counterattack, but soon the whole line was in retreat toward Mannboro and the Amelia Court House.

The original store as destroyed by fire on New Year's eve, 1953, and was subsequently rebuilt. The Sydnor family owned and operated this facility ("Sydnor's Store" and Mannboro Post Office") for over one hundred years. The store has since been sold, but continues to operate as "Sydnor' Store".

Lewis Ashton Coleman House (Landmark 6)

A final descendant of Daniel Coleman to be covered in this chapter is Lewis Ashton Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.3.3.3.5) – (1888 – 1958), a third great grandson of Daniel Coleman (# 1.1.4.1). Lewis Ashton was the son of Walter Emerson Coleman (1850 – 1924) and Mary Frances Featherstone (1852 – 1937).

Lewis Ashton Coleman's antecedents were:

Daniel Coleman [33]
(# 1.1.4.1)

Chapter 6

Frances Coleman
(1705 – Approx. 1769) and Her Family

Frances Coleman (# 1.1.4.2), the only known daughter of William Coleman, Jr., now Senior, was born about 1705 in Prince George County, Virginia, and married Robert Tucker in 1726. Robert was born in 1706 in Prince George County, Virginia, and died in 1769 in Amelia County, Virginia.

Her father, William Coleman, Jr., (identified as Senior in his will), states in his will of 23 June 1743, "I give and bequeath to my daughter Frances Tucker her mother's trunk after her mother's decease".

Frances was still alive in 1769, when her husband died. They had seven children, Godfrey (# 1.1.4.2.1), unknown birth date, Martha (# 1.1.4.2.2), born in 1727, Frances, (# 1.1.4.2.3), born in 1730, Rachel (# 1.1.4.2.4) , born in 1731, William (# 1.1.4.2.5), born 1733, Robert (# 1.1.4.2.6), born in 1739, and Daniel (# 1.1.4.2.7) , born in 1740.

Two of Frances' grandchildren, Godfrey Tucker (# 1.1.4.2.1), and Joel Tucker (# 1.1.4.2.6.1) signed a petition of Amelia Co. militiamen on about 23 May 1776. See Volume 1, page 300.

The following deeds are related to the Frances Coleman (# 1.1.4.2) family:

Will Book 2X, Amelia County, Virginia, 1761 – 1771, page 227 and 239 Abstracted and Compiled by Gibson Jefferson McConnaughey

As mentioned in Robert Tucker, Jr.'s Will, written 8 December 1768, the Tuckers owned 1,011.5 acres (275.5 a + 200 a + 278 a + 258 a). This place was later owned by the Moreheads. A portion of the property was sold at auction in the early 1900s and is now known and the Jackson Place. The old one and a half story house burnt in the 1930s while tenant farm workers were living there. The exact location of the plantation house is not precisely known. It can be concluded, however, that the plantation was located on the 1,192 acres between Winticomaick Creek and Long Branch deeded to James, Mathew and Francis Tucker in their 1728-1737 land patents shown on page 43 and 44. Local historian Frank Waldrop believes the plantation house was located at 37.218004, -77.812602, approximately 0.3 miles southwest of the Emmett S Clay House (Landmark 17).

The children of Frances Coleman and Robert Tucker were:

7. Daniel Tucker (# 1.1.4.2.7) born 1740. Revolutionary War Captain. Daniel Tucker is thought to have been the inspiration for the folk song, "Old Dan Tucker."

   According to a 1965 article published in Georgia Magazine, he came to Elbert County in 1798, after having served as a soldier in the American Revolution, and purchased land from John Heard for $1000; a tract of land of the "Cook's Ferry Tract" on the Savannah River, with a ferry and "all the appertenunces thereof and thereabout." The Georgia Legislature authorized him to keep a public ferry in 1817, from his own land to that of John Spear on the opposite shore. It operated as Tucker's Ferry until the automobile made it obsolete.

   Dan Tucker's land was rich farmland and he became a planter, as well as a minister. His legend says that he had a deep sense of responsibility to the slaves and spent his time praying with them and instructing them in religious matters. It is said that he was esteemed by his fellow planters as well as the slaves. The slaves adored him, singing verse after verse about him to show their appreciation for all that he did for them

   The song itself was written down and published in 1843 by Daniel Decatur Emmett (writer of the song "Dixie"). Daniel Tucker lived in Elbert County until his death in 1818 at age 78. His grave is on the site of his home, Old Point.

Deed ackn. & consid. money paid Sept. 26, 1754. Deed ordered rec. same day, after ANN, WIFE OF ROBERT COLEMAN, relinquished her right of dower.

Robert moved his family to Lunenburg County, Virginia, in 1754. His daughter Lucy, married Thomas Draper while they lived in this county. While in Lunenburg County, Virginia, Robert was a large landholder owning 610 acres on Allen’s Creek.

The details of this land ownership in Lunenburg County, Virginia, are as follows:

Land Deed Book 4, Page 405, Lunenburg County, October 1, 1754, Thomas Hankings to Robert Coleman "of Amelia County" 368 acres on both sides of Allen's Creek.

Book 4, Page 275, Lunenburg County, Virginia, November 8, 1755, Nicholas Major, Jr., sold Robert Coleman 142 acres on the South side of Allen's Creek.

Land Deed Book 5, Page 120, Lunenburg County, Virginia, December 31, 1757. James Tucker sold Robert Coleman 100 acres on the lower side of Allen's Creek.

Land Deed Book 6, Page 538 Lunenburg County, Virginia, December 1, 1761. Robert Coleman and Ann, his wife, to John Alloway, 142 acres on Allen's Creek and Mountain Branch.

Deed Book 10, Page 90, Lunenburg County, Virginia, November 9, 1764, Robert Coleman, Lunenburg County, with Christopher Coleman for a witness sold Thomas Farrar 140 acres on Allen's Creek.

Land Deed Book 10, Page 34, Lunenburg County, November 27, 1764, Robert Coleman of Lunenburg County to Christopher Coleman 168 acres on the South side of Allen's Creek at the mouth of Easter's Branch.

Following his time in Lunenburg County he moved to Mecklenburg County, Virginia.

The details of this land ownership in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, are as follows:

Mecklenburg County Records, Boydton, Virginia, Book 1, Page 194, August 26, 1765, Christopher Coleman to James Easter, 168 acres on the South side of Allen's Creek

He then moved his family from Virginia to within twelve miles of what later became Unionville, South Carolina, circa 1765. His land was just off Mill Creek, a tributary that flows into the Pacolet River. This creek was first called Clark's Mill Creek in honor of John Clark, Sr., father of General Elijah Clark.

The details of this land ownership in Union County, South Carolina, are as follows:

Office of the Secretary of State, Columbia, South Carolina, grant from the Honorable William Bull, sixth Governor of South Carolina, September 9, 1774, to Robert Coleman for six hundred acres on both sides of Mill's Creek. Recites that the land had originally been granted to Robert Coleman by the Governor of North Carolina on April 28, 1768, but later, the boundary had fallen within the limits of South Carolina. Mill's Creek is a branch of Pacolet River.

Land Deed Book B, Page 109, Union County, South Carolina. July 30, 1786. Robert Coleman deed to Abner Coleman recites that Robert Coleman, late of said District, died intestate, the owner of six hundred acres of land, which said land fell by descent to Robert Coleman, son of Christopher Coleman, as the heir-at-law to said real estate. Sold to Abner Coleman one-half of the said six hundred acres on the North side of Mill's Creek.

Robert Coleman served as a Patriot soldier under Col. Thomas Brandon in the 2nd Spartan Regiment, South Carolina Militia at the beginning of the Revolutionary War. He then deserted to the British and was named an outlaw in the proclamation of December 16, 1779, by the Governor of South Carolina in the newspaper, South Carolina and American General Gazette of Charleston, South Carolina, contained 40 names including Robert Coleman and his son Christopher.

Robert fought with the South Carolina Royalists and was an ensign on half pay at Savannah, Georgia, in 1780. By the time the British evacuated Fort Ninety Six, Robert, his wife, and most of his children, had become refugees in Charleston, South Carolina, under British protection. He died prior to August 15, 1783.

The bond for Robert Coleman's estate was signed by Thomas Draper and John Haile before John Thomas, Jr., Ordinary, on August 15, 1783. Administrators of the estate were Thomas and Lucy Coleman Draper. Major Zachariah Bullock, John Tollison and Adam Potter made an inventory of his estate on December 20, 1783. His lands were not confiscated. Lucy Coleman Draper, Robert's daughter, was, most likely, also in Charleston as a refugee, at the time of her father's death.

Robert's first wife was Susanna (or Susanne) Phillips from the Huguenot Colony, Manakin Town, Virginia. Some say that she is the daughter of Claude Phillipe de Richebourg. The author, however, has found no documentation of such. They had two children, Lucy and Frances, both born in Amelia County, Virginia, in the 1730s. Susanna had died by 1739.

1. Lucy Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.1) was born prior to 1740 in Amelia County, Virginia, and died in 1786 at Union County, South Carolina. She is buried at Moncks Corner Baptist Church Cemetery, South Carolina, with her husband who died in 1811. She married Thomas Draper, Sr., between 1754 and 1758 in Lunenburg County, Virginia. They had twelve children:

    - Sarah Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.1) born 6 Oct 1758, Virginia, died before 1852.
    - William Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.2) born 6 Apr 1761, Moncks Corner, Berkeley County, South Carolina, died 1762, South Carolina.
    - Anna Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.3) born 26 Aug 1763, South Carolina, died 1813, South Carolina.
    - James Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.4) born 5 Feb 1766, South Carolina, died 6 Jun 1836, Columbus, Hempstead County, Arkansas.
    - Thomas Henry Draper Jr.(# 1.1.4.3.1.5) born 15 Sep 1768, Berkeley, South Carolina, died 20 Aug 1840, Salt Lick, Jackson County, Tennessee.
    - Phillip Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.6) born 14 Jun 1771, South Carolina, died 1856, Smith, Tennessee.
    - Feriby Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.7) born 1772, Orangeburg, Orangeburg County, South Carolina, died Abt 1810, Lawrence, Newton County, Mississippi.
    - Catherine Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.8) born 27 Jan 1774, South Carolina, died Abt 1868.
    - Daniel Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.9) born 1 Apr 1776, Charleston, South Carolina died 22 Jun 1856, Lincoln, Missouri.
    - Travis Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.10) born 16 Sep 1778, Spartanburg, South Carolina, died 25 Sep 1857, Jackson, Madison County, Tennessee.
    - William Major Draper (# 1.1.4.3.1.11) born 28 Jun 1781, South Carolina, died Feb 1841, Jersey, Illinois.
    - Joshua Draper Sr (# 1.1.4.3.1.12) born 11 Jun 1784, Union County, South Carolina, died 15 Aug 1857, Alexandria, Calhoun County, Alabama.

2. Frances Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.2) was born prior to 1740 in Amelia County, Virginia, and died in 1781 of small pox as a Loyalist (Tory) refugee in Charleston, South Carolina. She married Zacharias Gibbs, son of John and Susanne Phillipe

Gibbs, after the Coleman family had moved to what later became South Carolina. Zacharias was born in Virginia in approximately 1741, and entered military service for Britain as a Captain at Ninety-Six, South Carolina, in November, 1775.

Robert was married a second time in 1740, to Ann Hinton, daughter of Christopher and Margaret Jones Hinton. They first lived in Amelia County, Virginia. They had six children, Christopher, Abner, Philip, William, Faithful, and Mary.

3. Christopher Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.3). He was born in approximately 1741, and was named for his maternal grandfather, Christopher Hinton. He married Mary Marshall in approximately 1759, in Lunenburg County, Virginia.

He acquired 200 acres on Mill Creek of Pacolet River. This land was surveyed on 15 December 1766. Zachariah Bullock was the Surveyor, and Randolph Hames and Abner Coleman were chain bearers. He received a grant for this land from Mecklenburg County, North Carolina, on 29 April 1768. When the North Carolina boundary lines were changed in 1772, the grant became part of South Carolina's Ninety Six District, and in 1785, a part of Union District.

Christopher Coleman built a house on his property and from it operated a tavern before and during the Revolutionary War. It was called Christie's Tavern. An article on the Christopher Coleman in the Union County Heritage Book states, "It was said that he would turn no man away, even during the American Revolution. If the Tories were coming to rest and water their horses, the Whigs would scamper down a ramp built over the creek and hide in the woods."

The tavern stood until the late 1990s. The remains of the house and chimney can still be seen where it stood on Park Farm Road, in Jonesville, South Carolina.

The creek that comes down the side and in front of where the old house stood is still called Coleman's Branch and flows into Mill Creek. It is approximately one mile from highway 18, after turning onto Robinson's Farm Road.

Christopher Coleman served under Colonel Thomas Brandon before deserting to the British. He joined the British and he and his father were both named an outlaw in the proclamation of December 16, 1779. He served as a major with the South Carolina Royalists and was listed on half-pay at Savannah, Georgia, in 1780.

Christopher Coleman died in 1784. In Abstracts of Old Ninety Six and Abbeville District Wills and Bonds, Abbeville, South Carolina, 1950, Compiled by Willie Pauline Young is the following: COLEMAN, CHRISTOPHER—BOX 20, PACK 439: Admnr: Wm. White. Lived in 96 Dist. (Bond missing.) Inv. made Dec. 8, 1784 by Adam Potter, Thos. Draper, Charles Hames. Sale, Dec. 28, 1784. Byrs: Wm., Jno. White, Wm. Coleman Jr. Isaac Samson, Thos. Palmer, etc. Abner Coleman is also mentioned in the will.

4. Philip Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.4) date of birth is unknown, died in 1785.

He fought with his neighbor, Captain John Nuckolls, in the war against the Cherokee Indians on 9 February 1771. He was a sergeant. Fighting with him in this skirmish was his brother, William.

Philip Coleman witnessed a deed transaction between Joab Mitchell and Thomas Draper on 2 May 1776, before his brother, Christopher Coleman, Justice of the Peace.

Land Deed Book O, page 195, 24 November 1817. Philip Coleman conveyed land to Robert Coleman; Martha Coleman, wife of Philip Coleman, relinquished dower.

He served under Col. Thomas Brandon with the Patriots before deserting to the British. He was probably at the battle of Kettle Creek for he was accused of sedition and held in the Ninety Six, South Carolina, jail. From here he was taken to Orangeburg, South Carolina, for trial in 1779.

He then served as a Loyalist under Col. Daniel Plummer in the Fairforest Militia. He was under Ferguson from June to October 1780 and was in the battle of Kings Mountain. He became a refugee in Charleston, South Carolina, and returned to his house in upstate South Carolina after the death of his sister, Frances.

Philip died in 1785, and John Haile, Adam Potter, and his brother, William Coleman, signed the administrative bond before John Thomas, Jr., Ordinary. COLEMAN, PHILIP—BOX 19, PACK 402: Est. admnr. Aug. 2, 1785 by Jno. Haile, Adam Potter, Wm. Coleman bound to Jno. Thomas Jr. 0rd. 96 Dist. sum

2,000 lbs. On Aug. 4, 1785 1 negro boy Sam was appraised in Union Court, S. C. by Adam Potter, Samuel Littlejohn, Lawrence Esterwood.

5. Mary Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.5) birth date unknown, married William Meek, son of John and Elizabeth Mitchell Meek.

William was born in Ireland in 1750. His father died in Ireland in 1765, and his mother, Elizabeth, brought her six children to this country circa 1768.

William was a Loyalist soldier and was with Patrick Cunningham in the 1775 encounter at Ninety Six, South Carolina. He was in hiding until Lieutenant Colonel Archibald Campbell arrived in Georgia. He attempted to join Campbell but was captured.

After being given security for his good behavior, and because of his youth, he was allowed to go back to his family. He remained there until Charleston fell to the British. Once again he joined Lieutenant Colonel Campbell and served in the militia until the evacuation of Charleston.

He served as a wagon master and was in that capacity under Lt. Col. John H. Cruger at the siege of Ninety Six, South Carolina. William Meek and Mary Coleman, his wife, became refugees in Charleston, South Carolina.

From there Mary emigrated to Rawdon, Nova Scotia with William Meek and lived until 1824. Their 250 acres of South Carolina land was confiscated. William Meek received a grant for 500 acres in Nova Scotia.

When Mary and William left South Carolina to move to Nova Scotia two sons and a daughter were left behind. The children were most likely left with William's mother, Elizabeth, who lived with her son, John. John was a Patriot soldier and fought under General Francis Marion. The children of Mary and William Meek were also Patriots.

William sold 250 acres of his Nova Scotia land in October of 1792. Shortly thereafter he left to journey to Ireland along with Zacharias Gibbs and John Law. After leaving by boat, they were not heard from again.

Mary Coleman Meek, wife of William, lived on in Rawdon, Nova Scotia, and died there about 1824.

6. Faithful Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.6), was born in 1743, and died in 1801.

She married Randolph Hames, son of William and Winifred Fann Hames. He was born on 22 January 1743. Faithful and Randolph had three children: John, Winifred (Susannah) and Nancy.

Faithful Coleman Hames died in 1801, in Union County, South Carolina. She left her son, John, a Negro girl now in his possession and half the value of negro Jude. She left her son-in-law, Green Burrough, half the value of Jude.

To her daughter, Winifred, she left a Negro girl, Edy, now in her possession. Her daughter, Nancy, received five Negro children. John and Nancy were executors of her estate.

Randolph served as a Patriot soldier under Col. Thomas Brandon before deserting to the British.

He was named as an "outlaw" in the proclamation of 16 December 1779 in the newspaper, South Carolina and American General Gazette of Charleston, South Carolina, along with forty other men including Robert Coleman and his son Christopher.

It is believed that Randolph fought in the battle of Kettle Creek after which he was marched from Augusta, Georgia, and imprisoned at Fort Ninety Six, South Carolina, where he received a sentence of execution and was hung as a Loyalist traitor to the Revolution.

7. William Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.7) was born in 1755 in Lunenburg County, Virginia, and died in 1808 in Union County, South Carolina.

He and his wife, Mary Randolph Coleman, were Loyalist refugees in Charleston, South Carolina, probably traveling with his mother and father. He was recommended on August 1780, by the commandant of Charles Town to be restored to the privileges of a British subject.

He signed an oath to the King on 28 August 1780. He possibly fought with the Patriots with his father and brothers, Philip and Christopher, but is not listed in the book, Roster of South Carolina Patriots in the American Revolution, by Bobby Gilmer Moss. He may not have joined with the Loyalists until they moved to Charleston.

After the death of his sister, Frances, and his return to the upstate, he served as a Patriot soldier under Col. Thomas Brandon. William Coleman, Sr., may have been married twice and his son, William Coleman, Jr., was possibly a child by a first wife. This son also fought under Col. Brandon.

William and his wife, Mary, sold 197 acres of land to Nicholas Harris on 21-22 June 1787. In 1800, he owned 17 slaves.

On 2 November 1801, William Coleman gave eleven slaves to his son, Philip Coleman: Morgin, York, Dick, Moses, Mark, Ned, Wiley, Fillis, Anica, Peg and Hager. He also gave him some cattle, sheep, hogs, and household furniture. William White and Robert Gibson witnessed the transaction.

Philip Coleman, son of William, and his brother, Robert, were business partners in 1809 and 1810, and made loans to some of the farmers in their neighborhood.

William Coleman died in 1808. On 16 January 1811, part of his children purchased 121 acres from Robert Coleman, their brother. It was part of a tract of land on which he lived.

Those named in the will were: Patsy Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.7.1), Philip Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.7.3), Elizabeth Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.7.7), John Guyton (husband of Mary Coleman), Thomas Lantrip (husband of Rebecca Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.7.2)), Ann Thompson (# 1.1.4.3.7.4), Francis Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.7.5), and Charlotte Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.7.6).

8. Abner Coleman (# 1.1.4.3.8) was born around 1755, and died in 1825 in Gwinnett, Georgia. According to Land Deed Book L, page 107, 13 September 1811, Susannah Coleman is identified as the wife of Abner Coleman, Sr. She could not write since she signed the deed by a mark.

He was a Loyalist soldier and served from 14 June 1780, under Captain Shadrack Lantrey and Maj. Daniel Plummer in the Fair Forest Militia. He was in the battle of Kings Mountain.

Abner evacuated Ninety Six with Lt. Col. John H. Cruger. He probably became a refugee in Charleston, South Carolina, and then returned to his house in South Carolina after the death of his sister, Frances.

Prior to 13 April 1782, he deserted to the Patriots. His Loyalist's pay was issued to Mrs. Elizabeth Nixon, for her son, Thomas Nixon, who served in the same regiment.

Abner was a land owner per the following records:

Land Deed Book B, Page 109, Union County, South Carolina. 30 July 1786. Robert Coleman deed to Abner Coleman recites that Robert Coleman, late of said District, died intestate, the owner of six hundred acres of land, which said land fell by descent to Robert Coleman, son of Christopher Coleman, as the heir-at-law to said real estate. Sold to Abner Coleman one-half of the said six hundred acres on the North side of Mill's Creek.

Abner Coleman and his wife, Susannah (Ann), and his brother, William Coleman, sold land to Nathaniel Gordan in 1788. No records now exist indicating how the brothers received this land.

Land Deed Book L, page 107, 13 September 1811. Abner Coleman, Sr., conveyed to Hezekiah Coleman, all of Union District, 90 acres on the North side of Mill Creek, being a part of a tract granted to Robert Coleman, refers to Abner Coleman, Jr.'s spring. Susannah Coleman, wife of Abner Coleman, Sr., relinquished dower. She signed by her mark.

Hezekiah sold his land to Philip Coleman, son of William, on 26 December 1811. His cousin, Richard, witnessed the transaction. Hezekiah's wife, Elizabeth Belue, relinquished her right of dower. They moved their family to Gwinnett County, Georgia.

Abner Coleman, Sr., sold 90 acres to Thomas Little on 25 December 1816. The land was on the north side of Mill Creek and was part of a tract granted to Robert Coleman (Sr.).

Abner moved his wife and the remainder of his family to Gwinnett, Georgia before 1820, to be near his son and died there in 1825.

Chapter 8

Joseph Coleman And His Family (1714 – 1771)

Joseph Coleman (# 1.1.4.4), son of William Coleman, Jr., (identified as Senior in his will), was born around 1714 and died on 23 January 1771 in Amelia County, Virginia. Married Elizabeth Mann around 1749 in Amelia County, Virginia.

   At a Court held for Amelia County the 23rd day of June 1785. Ordered that Daniel Allen, Evan Mitchell, William Hastings and Abraham Coleman or any three of them, being first sworn, do appraise in current the slaves and personal estate of James Bevill, Jr., deceased and return the appraisement to Court. Amelia County Order Book 18, Transcribed by Reiley Kidd.

   At a Court held for Amelia County on Thursday the 24th day of November 1785. Elizabeth Coleman relinquishes her right of dower in the land conveyed by Abraham Coleman her husband to Davis Adams. Amelia County Order Book 17, Transcribed by Reiley Kidd.

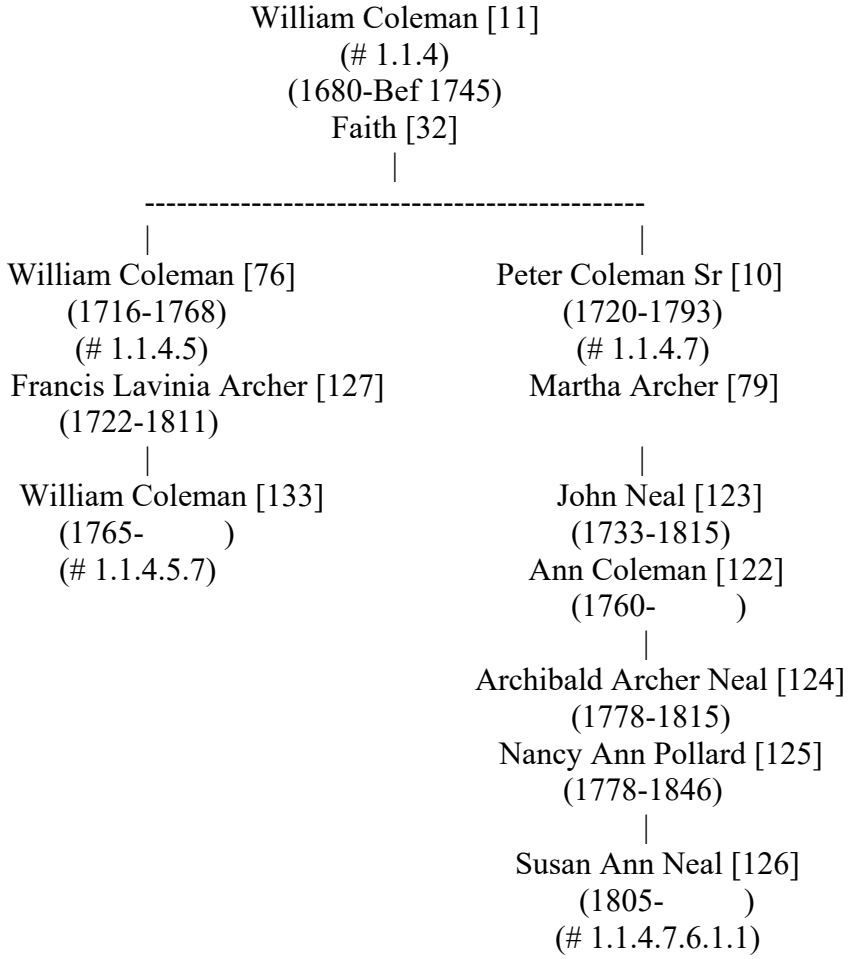
   In 1789 Abraham Coleman (along with Burrell (or Burwell) Coleman & John Neal) served as an executor for the estate of Jeremiah Pirkinson. (See Amelia County Will Book 4 1786-1792, p. 16).

Abraham Coleman is listed in the 1790 census for Amelia Co., Va. His household included 7 whites and 4 slaves. Other Coleman families listed nearby were headed by Burrell (or Burwell) Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.3), David Coleman Jr., Francis Coleman (# 1.1.4.4.2), Isaac Coleman (# 1.1.4.7.5), Jesse Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.4) and Peter Coleman . (# 1.1.4.7.3).

Abraham Coleman apparently died in or by Dec. 1794, when his widow Elizabeth was granted administration of his estate. An appraisal of Abraham's estate was made in April 1795 and returned to the court the next month. (See Amelia County Will Book 5 1793-1799, pp. 16, 44).

6. Ann Francis Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.6) – born in 1760. Married Jesse Clay.

7. William Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.7) – born in 1765. Married Susan Ann Neal (# 1.1.4.7.6.1.1) in September of 1826 at the conclusion of her wardship. Susan Ann Neal was born in 1805 and had been the Ward of William Coleman since the age of ten when her father died. This wardship was arranged at the death of her father since she was the first cousin, twice removed of William Coleman.



8. Archer Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.8) – born in 1767, and died in 1813. Married Eliza Bevil.

There are nine landmarks in Amelia County, Virginia with direct ties to William Coleman and his descendants.

Dolley Mary "Dorothy" Coleman John Stratton Clay House (Landmark 19)

Another Amelia County plantation, part of the vast William Coleman property, was owned by Dolley Mary Coleman Clay (# 1.1.4.5.5.6) and her husband John S. Clay.

Dolley Mary Coleman Clay (# 1.1.4.5.5.6) was the granddaughter of William Coleman (# 1.1.4.5).

Dolley Mary Coleman's antecedents were:

William Coleman [76]

Daniel W. Clay House on William Coleman Land Grant (Landmark 15)

Yet another Amelia County plantation, also part of the vast William Coleman property, was the Daniel W. Clay house located on Allen's Lane off of Waldrop Road.

At one time the Waugh family lived here. Ann B. Waugh married Daniel W. Clay in 1815. Daniel's brother, John S. Clay was married to Dolley Mary Coleman Clay (# 1.1.4.5.5.6).

It was later owned by Henry Fletcher Allen and then his son Henry Floyd Allen. Henry Fletcher Allen's brother, Robert Watkins Allen, was married to the daughter of Catherine Augusta Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.2.3). Catherine Augusta was the great granddaughter of William Coleman (# 1.1.4.5).

Catherine Augusta Coleman's antecedents were:

William Coleman [76]
(# 1.1.4.5)
(1716-1768)

Emmett S Clay House on William Coleman Land Grant (Landmark 17)

Another 200 acre tract on Winticomaick Creek (see William Coleman's will of 1743) passed down through the family to Emmett S. Clay (# 1.1.4.5.5.2.5.1) and (#.1.4.5.5.6.3.1) - (1846 – 1920), the son of Richard Edwin Clay, who was the 2nd great grandson of William Coleman.

Emmett S. Clay's antecedents were:

|
Emmett S. Clay [377]
(# 1.1.4.5.5.2.5.1) and (#.1.4.5.5.6.3.1)
(1846- 1920)

Emmett S. Clay served in the 1st Infantry Reserves, Company H, Light Artillery, CSA. He married India Anna Clay (1846-1917), the daughter of Daniel J. Clay and Elizabeth Pallon Clay of Dinwiddie County, Virginia.

Emmett Clay's daughter, Elizabeth Bessie Clay (# 1.1.4.5.5.2.5.1.1) and (# 1.1.4.5.5.6.3.1.1), told family members of that period that the house shown below (Landmark #17) was built by her father after his return from the Civil War. This a single story (two rooms and a central hall) over an English basement. A rock chimney on the east end of the house provides a fireplace in an upper room and also a fireplace in the basement. The basement rooms served as kitchen and dining room.

John W. Waldrop acquired this house in 1924 and demolished the rear portion and built the two-story addition that stands today. The front part of the house seems consistent with an 1860s/1870s house, but the basement beneath it doesn't seem to match. The rock walls, hewn beams, rock chimney and fireplace all seem much earlier.

It is thus believed that when Mr. Emmett S. Clay returned home from the war in 1865, on the hill he hoped to call home, there stood the ruins of his Coleman ancestral home. He most likely built what stands there today over the old 1700s William Coleman (#1.1.4 or #1.1.4.5) home's foundation and chimney. These are therefore the oldest known Coleman architectural elements in Amelia County, Virginia.

A lone oak tree remains near the house, the last reminder of the oak grove that inspired the Clay's to call the place, "Forrest Lawn". The oak tree goes back to the time of the original Colemans.

There is no evidence of any other dwelling house ever being located on this tract of land with the exception of an old two-room house used as a tenant house into the 1930s/1940s. There was a rock chimney with fireplace on one end. It seems this was probably originally a slave cabin.

It was located near a row of old log tobacco barns that stood along the road leading to the creek where cured tobacco was loaded onto a barge and taken down the Winticomaick, onto the Appomattox and then down to Petersburg.

Additional information on house ownership can be fund in the will of William B. Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.2) which can be found in Volume 2, Appendix 12. William was the father of both Martha A. D. Coleman and Catherine Augusta Coleman.

Joseph Henry Syndor and Hattie E.P.Clay House (Landmark 10)

Another house in the area was owned by Hattie E. P. Clay, William Coleman's 2nd great granddaughter.

Hattie E. P. Clay (# 1.1.4.5.5.6.3.4) - (1859-1933) was married to Joseph Allen Sydnor (1860-1934). Hattie was the granddaughter of Dolley Mary Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.6) - (1789 -) who was married to John S. Clay (1786 – 1854).

Hattie E.P. Clay's antecedents were:

Daniel Craddock House (Father in Law of Bettie A. Coleman (Landmark 9)

Another interesting Coleman related house was frequented by Bettie A. Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.2.6.5) - (1861-1937), 2nd great granddaughter of William Coleman.

Bettie A. Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.2.6.5) - (1861-1937) was married to William Lloyd Craddock (1852 – 1928). The Daniel W. Craddock house in which William Craddock was raised burnt in the 1890s and a replacement house was built soon thereafter.

The Craddock burial ground is here. There are eight marked graves here including Nannie Williams Coleman Craddock (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.2.1), 1862-1925, daughter of Richelieu Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.2) and Cornelia Elizabeth Mann. Some of the Craddocks are buried at Liberty Church including Bettie A. Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.7.5), wife of William Lloyd Craddock and daughter of Richard Albert Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.5.2.6) and Julia Anne Rebecca Coleman (# 1.1.4.1.7.5.7). Richard Albert and Julia Ann were 3rd cousins.

Paul Dandridge Coleman House and Store (Landmark 28 and 29)

The last Coleman related house was the Paul Dandridge Coleman house (and store).

Paul Dandridge Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.7.2.1.1.3) was the 3rd great grandson of William Coleman (# 1.1.4.5).

The Paul Dandridge Coleman (# 1.1.4.5.7.2.1.1.3) house has recently been demolished.

The Paul Coleman Store is still standing. It is not, however, still in operation. It can be found at the corner of Spainville Road and the old Richmond Road. It was once a popular meeting place for the local farmers.

Paul married Dorothy Mae Gunn on 26 November 1948 and died on 14 March 2004. Dorothy and Paul are both buried at Lakeview Cemetery in Blackstone, Virginia.
